

ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

An image reproducing apparatus according to this invention is an apparatus which has a function of a screen saver and reproduce an image on the basis of the image data read out from a DVD 600, and includes: a first field memory 410 capable of storing image data corresponding to a plurality of images; a second field memory 420 which previously stores an image data of an opening image; an input unit 310 for selectively inputting a screen saver image from reproduced images; and a screen saver control unit 111 which stores the image data of the pertinent image in the first field memory 410 whenever the screen saver image is selectively inputted through the input unit.